Introduction

While many hold that World War One was the first major international catastrophe in modern times, undoubtedly the sinking of the “Great Ship” was a prelude to it. When an individual dies a few to dozens of people are affected by the loss. However, when 1, 500 souls perish, tens of thousands feel the loss. There have been numerous books, articles, films and records made on the Titanic sinking as it swept into the annals of legend and lore many years ago. It would be difficult to come up with a new research approach concerning this event that has not been undertaken before.

Yet Titanic Tables looks back again. This work catalogs the initial records of deceased victims inscribing their memories herein to provide a quick reference to the researcher. Of course there are some errors in these original records. Nevertheless, they do well overall to reconstruct the identities of those who undertook the perilous voyage of the Unsinkable as they met their fates in the morning of April 15, 1912.

TABLE I: PASSENGER CASUALTIES

The category notes below will help the researcher to navigate and better absorb information in the tables.

PASSENGER. Names appear as they were taken down in original records. Among these records there are some discrepancies from time to time between one source and another one. For instance C. F. Fraser may appear in a different list as G. F. Fraser but are known by deductive logic and record details to be the same individual. In the case of The Titanic and other ocean liners of the period there were many individuals coming to North America from different countries. Clerks recording passengers' identities were at times unfamiliar with names of other nationalities and therefore wrote how names sounded, not how they were actually spelled. Titanic Tables lists the original record providing sparse corrections in parenthesis brackets from contemporary sources Wikipedia and Encyclopedia Titanica. Also in parenthesis will appear the Class of a passenger-whether first, second or third-as they all appear in one single list. Almost no punctuation appears in the passenger list section as some of the original records omitted such. Lastly, some names were recorded in short form: Chas=Charles, Edwd=Edward, Eliz=Elizabeth, Fredk=Frederick, Geo=George, Jas=James, Mgt/Margt=Margaret, Richd=Richard, Robt=Robert, Thos=Thomas, Wm=William.

AGE. it is not unusual to find differences in an individuals' age listing between records. Some reasons are as follows: 1) People only thought an approximate age was sufficient. For instance if a person was 52 a response of '50' might be proffered. 2) Some lied about their ages on purpose so as to appear younger or older; 3) Some people in 1912 didn't know exactly how old they were. Also, a common error people made is that they mistakenly calculated their ages only by looking at the years, rather than taking into account the month they were born. For instance, one born on May 15, 1900 and stating an age as 12 on April 15th, 1912 would be correct if he would be one month older. Also, in this work, reports of the medical examiner of Halifax were consulted. A passenger listing may say someone is 16 years old but, if the coroner stated an opinion of 22 years of age, both will appear in this record. Some original lists do not give exact ages such as those containing alien passengers. As researchers over the decades have reconstructed victims' backgrounds including biographical and genealogical details, those ages unclear in original sources will be listed in parenthesis, the same sources consulted being those noted above.

LAST ABODE. This category gives the last place where an individual lived or where someone stayed at such as a hotel. More than one place is sometimes mentioned. Abodes recorded can be vague such as to only list countries while others contain complete street and town addresses. Contact or forwarding addresses appear as well.

OCCUPATION. A travelers' work, trade or occupation is often found on passenger lists of this era. Not all details were recorded for Alien passengers but occupations overall are noted below. Some are in short form: Agr Lbr=Agricultural Labourer, Carpt=Carpenter, Col=Colonel, Elect Engr=Electrical Engineer, Gen=General, Labr=Labour/Labourer, Mechl Eng=Mechanical Engineer.

STATUS. The most commonly found term concerning the status of deceased passengers of the Titanic is 'Supposed Drowned'. A modern rendering might read "Supposedly Drowned" but this book attempts at union with original notes. If a corpse from the disaster was recovered it is not only mentioned but also how it was disposed of. Punctuation is found in this category only due to the fact that a number of quotes are taken directly from sources and more than 1 item may appear in the Status column. All dates unless otherwise specified are 1912.

SOURCES. These are all listed below but an abbreviated version of them is given here:
RDP 01: Register of Deceased Persons (Passengers); RRB 01: Records of Recovered Bodies up to May 3, 1912; RRB 02: Nova Scotia Archives Fatality Reports from the Medical Examiner of the City of Halifax; QPL: Queenstown Outward Passenger List, April 11th, 1912; SPL: Southampton Outward Passenger List, April 10th, 1912.

TABLE II: CREW FATALITIES

The category notes below will help the researcher to navigate and better absorb information in the tables.

NAME. Crew names appear below as they were on the original lists examined. Some are in full form (i.e. first/last names) but most are first initial with last names. Some sparse corrections or additions may be found in parenthesis brackets like in any other category courtesy of Wikipedia and Encyclopedia Titanica.

AGE. Ages of the crew are those that were given in 1912 sources. This includes the estimations of the Medical Examiner of Halifax. A number of age listings are slightly incorrect and contemporary research mentioned above will furnish corrective details in parenthesis brackets.

LAST ABODE. The last known address of crew members given in initial records is found here. In certain cases where no address was recorded the place of contracting work (e.g. Southampton) is provided instead. Punctuation was used in the addresses in the crew section as it was predominant in the consulted record but not so for the passengers' section where punctuation was loosely recorded.

OCCUPATION. The crew of the Titanic worked in one of three areas: Deck Department, Victualling Dept and Engine Department. Not all occupations listed give the department designation but these are available online.

STATUS. The designation "Supposed Drowned" might read "Supposedly Drowned" in modern usage but Titanic Tables adheres to the original record. Likewise, current usage would say "buried in" not "buried at" a cemetery like early records state.

SOURCES. These are listed below but are provided in rudimentary form here: RDP 02: Register of Deceased Persons (Crew); RRB 01: Records of Recovered Bodies up to May 3, 1912; RRB 02: Nova Scotia Archives Fatality Reports from the Medical Examiner of the City of Halifax; TDCM: Titanic Deceased Crew Members.
